

Are you looking for a communication & marketing internship?

The best thing about food service, the unique world of eating, drinking and sleeping, is the love for the profession, entrepreneurship and hospitality. The foodservice market is constantly looking for new ways to exceed expectations and want to perform better every day. That dynamic makes the world of foodservice in our eyes to the best branch which exist... and our job the best job. Because those who want to create value in foodservice cannot do this without knowledge. And we do not love anything more than, collecting, translating and discounting knowledge about the world of foodservice: we like to see what happens and why. We are offering our clients insights and give fresh ideas for a sustainable business.

Our employees have extensive experience within the foodservice market. Moreover, we have the insights and relationships throughout the entire foodservice chain. As a result, we cannot only develop new ideas, but also ensure that they fit in with daily practice.

Description

The internship is a combination of activities focused at the communication and marketing between different projects that run at Foodstep. The variety of assignments and clients ensures a unique, dynamic and varied internship. As a Foodstepper you work to get insights in the foodservice market, but you are also in contact with the customer. You collect and analyze data, then enrich it with food trends and translate this into insights and advice to the client. As an intern you get the opportunity, freedom and responsibility to participate in this process.

What are you offering Foodstep?

This position demands a passionate and proactive personality with strong affinity in the Foodservice sector, someone who is enthusiastic to be involved in communication and marketing daily and who likes to become a new link in our team. We offer you a small, diverse team of professionals involved in a dynamic work environment. It is important that you can work in a team, but you are also self-reliant. You have very good knowledge of the Dutch language and excellent communication skills. We are recruiting for a candidate with an HBO or academic degree.

What's in it for you?

We offer you a dynamic working environment in the WAT (Working Apart Together) building with a lot of freedom. As a trainee you are part of a small but diverse team, with nice and enthusiastic colleagues who will make your internship unforgettable. A small team means that you think along about the development of products and work together with our clients and Foodsteppers to achieve excellent result. It is important that you as an intern show your personal learning goals more and then we look together at the possibilities to move and grow. We offer you a healthy working environment and an extensive healthy lunch every day. Placement allowance in accordance with legal norm.
