

Assistant Restaurant Manager

Share responsibility for this Booking.com company restaurant?

What are you going to do?

With about 2.500 lunch guests, Booking.com is Vermaat's biggest company restaurant partner in downtown Amsterdam. We provide restaurant services for this international company across multiple locations. From cream of tomato soup to delicious Indian curries or a vitello tonnato, you know best how to welcome and advise our (inter)national guests.

We are looking for a new Assistant Restaurant Manager for one of these locations. This location has 700 lunch guests everyday. In this role, you'll support the restaurant manager in many ways; you will have financial, operational, and commercial responsibilities. You're an operational ace, and together with your team you strive for perfection as hosts. You really get the point across like no one else! You're the restaurant manager's right hand and will fill in their role if needed. Besides, you'll help make timetables, buying, and (employee) administration. With your entrepreneurial spirit, you are constantly working to improve and develop the offerings. In short: you're indispensable.

Who are you?

- You've finished a relevant professional training (MBO-level or similar) with some leadership experience OR you are a Hotelschool starter and want to acquire leadership skills or take them to the next level.
- You've got a hands-on mentality and know how to get things done.
- You're open, direct, and have great communication skills.
- You've got an entrepreneurial spirit and aspire to work towards your own Vermaat location.
- You're available for a full-time position and don't mind working on weekdays.
- You live in or near Amsterdam.

Who are we?

Vermaat tailors its catering concepts to businesses, hospitals, museums, universities, professional schools, airports, and events. Vermaat T also develops its own brand for the catering and retail industries. Vermaat stands for solid partnerships, personal attention and good relationships, customized work for its clients, creativity, culinary craftsmanship, and professional teams. We do all this with the utmost attention for people and the environment. Vermaat's core values are enthusiasm, growth, attention, and pride. These aren't just words — they shape our behaviour. You can recognize Vermaat employees by their personality and the way they do things for themselves and others.

What do we have to offer?

Do you want to achieve your maximum potential? Never stop growing? Then Vermaat is the place for you; we'll give you room to develop and appropriate compensation. We make time regularly to talk about your growth. What else do you want to learn? What do you want to achieve? Think about growing to an even bigger location, or managing multiple locations. Vermaat helps you achieve your dreams. Your growth never stops.

Excited?

Can you convince us with your track record, but above all with your personality and drive? Reach out to us directly using the application button.